

Milan on Water: Navigli, the Planning Legacy of Leonardo da Vinci

Submitted by AA [1] on 21 September, 2014 - 10:00

The term “naviglio” is the Italian term for “canal.” Therefore, “Navigli” the plural of “naviglio,” is the name for the artificial canals of Milan. They were built between 1179 (Naviglio Grande) and the 16th century (Naviglio Martesana) with the purpose of making Milan accessible from the Ticino and Adda rivers.read more [2]

Broadcast

by: http://feedproxy.google.com/~r/sustainablecitiescollective_allposts/~3/k9WkXOUGL... [3]

Architect Africa Network Search: