

Next: A Resurgence of Community Development?

Submitted by AA [1] on 8 June, 2015 - 09:09

Martin Luther King observed that injustice, whether urban or rural, cannot be overcome by philanthropy (or, let me add, by urban planning) alone. We must defend the community development nonprofit organizations who have been working tirelessly for years and years. Housing opportunities are important, but they don't transform neighborhoods on their own.
